Leerdam Memoria[®]: crystal memories

Leerdam Memoria[®], crystal memories

The loss of a relative or loved one is always a poignant event. Leerdam Memoria[®] are crystal urns and reliquaries that enable you to cherish (some of) the ashes of the deceased.

Royal Leerdam Crystal has been producing art and ornamental items according to traditional methods for over 125 years. Head Designer Siem van der Marel invited a selection of guest designers who are renowned for their pure and modest style to assist in the design of crystal urns.

The result is a collection of colourful crystal items of timeless beauty that can keep your memories alive in style. Each piece is so beautiful you will not be able to take your eyes off them.

You can even have the name of your deceased loved one and his or her date of birth and date of death engraved in your crystal urn in subtle script lettering. Everything is done by hand so you can personalise it however you wish. You can, for example, include a personal message. You can also specify where you would like the engraving. This way, you determine whether you want others to recognise the crystal as an urn.

Have you seen an urn that you really like the shape of but you would prefer in another colour? If so, discuss your requirements with your funeral director. Leerdam Memoria[®] cannot be ordered directly at Royal Leerdam Crystal.

Some see life as suffering.

The end of that suffering is reached by attaining a condition of absolute harmony and rest, or nirvana.

Heaven and earth

We learn to play in the green grass, live our lives somewhere between heaven and earth to finally ascend into the soft blue of the next world.

Perhaps it is just a fantasy that the souls of the deceased shine in the firmament as new stars, but it is a wonderful fantasy.

Infinity

*A circle cut with a vertical line running through the centre is the ancient symbol for fertility and infinity.
Without fertility there is no new life,
without life there is no death.*
